

Letters to the editor...

NB: Please keep letters to approx. 100-150 words in length. Ed.

Re: Hydrogen Peroxide

Dear Duncan, As a new reader of your magazine, thanks to the publicity given to it by Brian Wilshire on his radio programme recently, I wish to compliment you on its contents.

I was particularly interested in the article on Hydrogen Peroxide as I have been using it now for over six months, having been introduced to it by Brian's references to it in his book "The Fine Print". Incidentally I have been a pharmacist for over 55 years, and at the time I trained, 3% Hydrogen Peroxide had an official oral dose of 2ml to 8ml.

I note from your editorial that you have been experiencing computer problems and perhaps this accounts for the rather "garbled" dosage table on page 22 under the heading "Purging Schedule for 3% Hydrogen Peroxide". It would seem that two suggested schedules have been lumped together. Could you please check your source copy and advise me as to the correct dosage tables.

I enclose my application for a year's subscription and an order for back copies.

Yours sincerely,

Ernest W., Ph.D., M.P.S.

(Dear Ernest, just as a good carpenter should never blame his tools, so a good publisher should not blame his computer. The purging schedule you require is printed in full on page 37 of this issue.)

Re: Suppression of Oxygen Therapies

Dear Mr Roads, Oxidative therapies are under attack in the United States. Large pharmaceutical companies are paying huge sums of money to Political Action Committees (PACs) to coerce legislators to force government bureaucracies such as the FDA, DEA, NIH, and the CDC to raid individual practitioners and cause revocation of their licences. There are cases that are even being tried with recommended fines and prison terms. Many AIDS support groups are also being financed by the pharmaceutical companies. They are discouraging any oxidative therapies for their members. Apparently, they collect monies to meet their payroll, publish "facts" and not one of them we contacted has provided funds for their members' treatment.

In the last five years my clinic has treated over 200 cases of HIV-positive patients. We have kept in contact with as many of these patients as possible, and of that number, 113 patients still report they are HIV-negative. It is harder and harder to get any patients to come forward with their results due to locality and "AIDS bashing" - a real growing social problem here in the South.

I now find it necessary to publish the Boyce Clinic, Inc. protocol so that as many people affected with HIV-positive AIDS can find treatment (possibly a cure) in other countries that are more broadminded, less interested in the dollar, and more interested in the patient. AZT and DDI, while making billions of dollars, are really cytotoxic to the patients. No one has lived past 3 years using AZT or DDI, but using oxidative and alternative therapies, patients have been able to lead a productive healthy lifestyle for over five years.

In closing, I hope many physicians, both medical and natural, will utilise the protocol with my best wishes. If possible, I would like to have some feedback, and if more protocol clarification is needed, I'm sure they can write to you at Nexus and you'll forward it to me for further explanation.

Sincerely,

Dr James Boyce

Boyce Clinic, Inc.

4410 B. West Aloha Drive

Diamondhead MS 39525 USA

(We have published Dr Boyce's protocol for the successful treatment of HIV in the Resources and Updates Section of this issue; see pages 36-37.)

Re: Advertising Response

Dear Editor, A letter of great gratitude for the terrific response from your switched-on readers who caught a vision of Lymphacising from the December-January issue of Nexus. I am pleased to be able to report that some of the many people who have purchased the Lymphaciser and got into a regular program are already seeing positive results. Some testimonials: "in less than a week I had clearness of thought, appetite back, and lots more energy ..."; "it really works, my hips can now rotate freely, amazing..."; "in five minutes the Lymphaciser had corrected my jet lag..."; "I have lost an incredible amount of excess weight...".

Lymphacising is proving to be a true self-help system where the "self" is catered for by cleansing the lymphatic system. This is the body's front line defence that removes toxins and allows the body to naturally find its own balance and heal itself. Energy meridians are also cleared promoting the proper function of the central nervous system and the establishment of self-worth.

Thanks again,

Lymphatically yours,

Ian Pettitt

(Ian, I think I should charge you for advertising in Letters to the Editor. Lucky for you though, I also use the lymphaciser and can thoroughly recommend it. Ed.)

Re: Planetary Alignments

Dear Ed, I appreciate articles like that by Stan Deyo, (Nexus Dec-Jan '93), as they fill in the gaps with the sort of research that doesn't get done by the rest of us. His overview information is valuable.

As an astrologer though, I'd like to raise an issue from Stan's article that has been bugging me for years. It is the question of "alignments". It's been used in heaps of articles by all sorts of people over the last decade. The media also regularly abuse the term.

The best example was in 1982 around a book called "The Jupiter Effect" and the subsequent debate it began. The gist was that all the planets would align in 1982 and this would cause tidal waves, floods, earthquakes etc. While it was an eventful year politically, socially and earthwise, none of the great predictions really materi-alised. (And only some planets lined up anyway.)

It did however give rise to the "alignment" theory - that when the planets align the earth will cop it. I would like people who use the alignment concept to explain what planet is doing what to what.

Planets also square, conjunct, oppose and trine each other. Are each different and in what way? How does that tie in with Stan's graph on page 12 of Vol.2, #11, and what happened planetarily at each month? If they are not clarified then this general "alignment" term is applied to everything and no one is any wiser.

Thanks for the article Stan, but more clarification please.

Richard G., Noosa Heads

Re: Adams' Pulsed Electric Motor Generator

Dear Sir, I have noticed over the years many stories and adverts for substances and devices which the inventors claim will work wonders, and if you send $39.95 P&P you'll discover it for yourself.

I have over the years sent away many times for these miracles and yet received in return only disappointment.

Many times, I have attempted to construct devices from plans found in magazines and I have never been able to reproduce what the author claims. Most of the people who testify to the authenticity of these devices are to the average man, unapproachable.

Could you write a follow-up story on the Adam's Motor, about someone's successful construction of such a device.

I have rarely heard of the inventors of these devices using them on a daily basis.

A layman has a better way of describing new technology without confusing everyone with technical jargon, such as "my Adam's Electric Go-Kart can go two weeks without a recharge". Not the EMF unity rated 114% of a gigawatt.

Yours faithfully

Peter W., Yarraman

(Don't worry Peter, you will be hearing a lot more of Robert Adams in the future. Ed)